

[illegible]

5           A photocatalyst, which has an opposite electric charge to a substances to be treated, in which the opposite electric charge is given by carrying an inorganic substance on a surface of the photocatalyst. A method for producing the photocatalyst.